Jarden Consumer Solutions Employees Create New Fund for Charities
New charitable program strengthens employees' commitment to their community

MCMINNVILLE, Tenn. — June 11, 2007 — Charitable organizations in the McMinnville area will be getting a boost thanks to the generosity of the employees of Jarden Consumer Solutions (JCS). Starting this month, JCS employees at the Company's Oster® Professional facility in McMinnville will begin contributing to the Jarden Consumer Solutions Community Fund, which provides charitable contributions to qualified not-for-profit organizations.

“Our employees' generosity and support provides the JCS Community Fund with the ability to invest significant financial resources aimed at improving the lives of those at-risk in our communities,” said Rocki Rockingham, Jarden Consumer Solutions vice president, community relations and communications. “As we continue our efforts to give back to the communities in which our employees live and work, we are proud to extend our JCS Community Fund program with the inclusion of our McMinnville facility's employees.”

The guidelines and grant application for the JCS Community Fund can be found on the Community page of the Company's Web site, www.jardencs.com. Charitable organizations that meet the requirements may begin applying for grants by following the directions on the application. Grant applications are considered on a quarterly basis by a committee of employees. To be considered at the August meeting, agencies should return their completed applications by July 20, 2007.

The Jarden Consumer Solutions Community Fund is the Company's employee-funded charitable giving entity. As a 501(c)(3) organization, the Fund provides monetary grants to qualified charitable organizations that focus on community development (at-risk women, families and youth, and food programs) and serve the communities where JCS employees live and work.
