Local Company Offers Charities Opportunity to Receive Funding
New charitable program strengthens employees' commitment to their community

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — October 4, 2007 — Charitable organizations in southern Mississippi will be getting a boost thanks to the generosity of the employees of Jarden Consumer Solutions (JCS). In August, JCS employees at the Company's Hattiesburg and Waynesboro facilities began contributing to the Jarden Consumer Solutions Community Fund, which provides charitable contributions to qualified not-for-profit organizations — and now the JCS Community Fund is ready to begin accepting applications for grants.

“Our employees' generosity and support provides the JCS Community Fund with the ability to invest significant financial resources aimed at improving the lives of those at-risk in our communities,” said Rocki Rockingham, Jarden Consumer Solutions vice president, community relations and communications. “With the introduction of the JCS Community Fund in Mississippi, our employees further advance their efforts to give back to the communities in which they live and work.”

The guidelines and grant application for the JCS Community Fund can be found on the Community page of the Company's Web site, www.jardencs.com. Charitable organizations that meet the requirements may begin applying for grants by following the directions on the application. Grant applications are considered on a quarterly basis by a committee of employees. To be considered for a grant this year, agencies should return their completed applications by October 29, 2007.

The Jarden Consumer Solutions Community Fund is the Company's employee-funded charitable giving entity. As a 501(c)(3) organization, the JCS Community Fund provides monetary grants to qualified charitable organizations that focus on community development (at-risk women, families and youth, and food programs) and serve the communities where JCS employees live and work.
